The information you have provided will help you get the most out of your yoga therapy session and clarify our yoga therapy/client relationship.

I understand and acknowledge that yoga therapy is the specific application of yogic tools - postures/exercises, breathwork, meditation techniques, and more - to address an individual's physical, mental or emotional needs and/or goals.

I understand and acknowledge (per my signature) that yoga therapy may involve some physical exertion and stretching. I agree to take full responsibility for not exceeding my limits in the practice and for any injury or discomfort I might experience. I agree to inform my yoga therapist of any activities or movements which I feel could cause injury to myself or which make me uncomfortable. I understand and accept that physical assists or adjustments (with the Client's consent) may be necessary to improve alignment and/or to avoid injury. I consent to such contact and recognize that the yoga therapist will apply any necessary contact in a professional and trauma-informed manner. It is my right to withdraw consent for physical assists or adjustments at any time.

I understand and acknowledge that Yes You Yoga and Wellness, LLC shall not provide any medical advice or treatment to the Client. The Client (or the legal guardian) is advised to consult with their primary medical provider. Yes You Yoga and Wellness, LLC shall not be held liable for any injury, loss or damage to property and/or person sustained during or as a result of participation in this session or class.
